TUESDAY. JUNE 12, 1883.

The Legislative having now got thoroughly in harness for the work of the session, we are glad to see the work laid out by the Govemment to be of an eminently practical and useful nature, and having the stamp of having received the careful and anxious consideration of the Government before being submitted to the Lgis-lature for, final maturity. Tae measures include many affecting the rights of property, the security of its tenure and trans-ier of the protection of the rights of labor, the improvement of municipal and judicial insti-tutions, the foundation of a system of and for tutions, the foundation of a system of air Pro-vincial Pententiary, and other important measures. So thoroughly were these mea-sures considered, and so wisely designed, that much progress has already been made, and no compliment can be jaid the Government than the Opposition have been so far almost totally unable to find room for criticism. In private legislation there is an uncism. In private registation there is an insually large amount of business to be transacted, and we notice that our member, Mr. Woodworth, has his hands full, in connection with matters affecting the constituency. He'is indefatigable in his attendance at committees, attentive to delegations, dilligent in watching the interests of the constituency in the House, and has already won the reputation of a useful and careful member. Dr. Harrison, his colleague, has also won a high reputation in the House, and proved that his constituents have made a wise choice. The same cannot be said of Mr. Martin, who is loquacious and officious, has made himself already a nuisance in the House, and even had the audacity to express his willingness to take charge of bills respect-ing Brandon, of which Mr. Woodworth was taking care of. Perhaps he was prompted by some local Grits!

EDITORIAL NOTES.

War between France and China seems inevitable, unless France abandons her pretensions in Annama. Chies appears to be in earnest in her preparations, and if her former trouble with Russia had not led outside par-ties to know t at she does not always mean war when she seems most determined, there would be ample assurance that mouble in her commercial relations with other nations must must be expected.

Late advices from Russia seem to us to indicate that there is trouble or great likelihood of being trouble for the Czar. The Nihiliate allege that their agents were sufficiently close of the monarch at the coronation to have truck him on the head, had they so desired.

AQUATIC.

What the N. Y. Times says About the Haniau-Courtney Boat Race and the Hop Bitters' Ren.

NEW YORK, June 6 .- Speaking of the efforts being made by a Rochester company to arrange a match between Hanlan and Courts healt to induce any one to believe that Courtney will ever meet Hanlan in a fair race. If he is not taken sick, or escapes being poisoned, or does not accidently escapes being poisoned, or does not accidently run his boat against a concealed wire, or is able to protect his boat against his private aw, some new accident will prevent hus from rowing when the appointed day comes. In that case the Hop Bitters men will have to lay $10,600 and it seems hardly probable to the history will receive account incidenthat their bitters will receive enough incidental advertising in connection with boat racing to leave them much profit. The offence of attempting to induce Courtney to rew would be very inadequately punished by a fine of $10,000. If the man ever did know how to row, which is very doubtful, he has long since forfeited all right to be regarded as an oarsman. The most lenient judgement upon him is that which pronounces him a crank of class of Daniel Pratt, and the late Stephen Branch. The public has grown ter-ribly tired of periodical attempts to match Courtney against Hanlan, or any other man who can really row, and if the Bitters' men could be fined $10,000 every time they offer to back the aquatic crank public sense of justice would be satisfied.

Ask the Old Woman

A gentleman tourist relates the following amusi.g incident as having occurred while travelling through the western country.

Riding on horseback just at night through the woods in Saginaw county, Michigan, I came into a clearing, in the middle of which stood a log house, its owner sitting in the open door smoking his pipe. Stopping my horse before him, the following conversation

Good evening, sir," said I.

"Good evening."
"Can I get a glass of milk from you to

"Well, I don't know. Ask the old wo-

By this time the wife was standing at his side.

"Oh, yes," said she, "of course you can."
While drinking it I asked: "Think we are going to have a storm?"

"Well, I really don't know. Ask the old woman-she can tell.

"I guess we shall get one right away," said

Again I asked: "How much land have yo got cleared here?"

"Well I really don't know. Ask the old woman-she knows.

"About nineteen acres," said she, again answering."

Just then a troop of children came running and shouting round the corner of the

"Are those your children?" said I. "Don't know. Ask the old woman-she

I didn't wait to hear the reply, but drew rein, and left immediately.

"Bill Arp's View of Preachers.

I like the preachers. They hold us back from going to extremes. They are the balance-winels of society, the sects to the train, the pendulum to the clock. They are like the Sabbath that gives us rest and peace. They are to society what the judge is to the law. I love'em all, and when they are blotted out which God forbid, I want to go too. In sickness, in trouble, in affliction, yea, in the last agonies they are with us and comfort us, while the busy world wags on—God bleast the preachers of this land—the reachers of every creed that teaches love to our Creator and love and kind-mess to one another. Nevertheless, I sentimes feel sorty for the preachers children, for the good man is so afraid ine will do wrong he leans the other way. It did me good the other day when I saw one of 'em take his children to see the circus procession. By wand by inaybe, they will get old enough to be trusted within the canvass and see the circus procession. By and by inaybe, they will get old enough to be trusted within the canvass and see the entry hores in the ring, and the men ride around, hear the clown crack his such a fool. I don't admire these folks who are always a langling whether a thing is fanny or not, and I never did like to see a pretty girl gigling at every using that happened; but still it is better to have the map the procession.
